Homeopathic Brethren.

Take a rubin's leg,
Mix'd, wth drug-stick merely,
Put it in a tub
Filled with water nearly.
Set it out of doors,
In a place that's shady,
Let it stand a week,
(Three days for a study)
Dip a spoonful in
To a new salt Kettle,

Or perhaps bel metal.
 Fill the kettle up.
 Purge on a boiling,
 Skim the liquor off,
 Pour it out its piping.
 For thickening and salt,
 Take of rice one kernel,
 Use to heat the fire,

Let the liquor boil,
Half an hour—no longer—
(If it's for a man)
You may make it stronger.

Should you now desire
That the soup be flavory,
Stir it once around
With a stalk of celery.

If of three you choose—

Just to put a match in,
I will be flavoured fire.
If you dip your watch in.

When the broth is done,
Set it by 26 "get" it.
Then, three times a day
Let the patient smell it.

If he chance to die,
Say "was nature did it."
But I should get well.

Argillaceous Oxides.
Felspar is composed of silicic acid, silica, alumina or clay, and potash or alkali, predominates. Quartz, in all its varieties, is almost the entire amount of felspar; it is also the principal silicious clay. It contains frequently twice as much silica as the quartz, and potash is also included, the quantity of iron and soda is comparatively small, not often over two or three per cent. It appears, then that sand is composed of felspar.

feldspar, or chemical combinations, again combined the same energy. Feldspar, clay, is composed of four oxides, also combined by chemical affinity, to form a compound. The quartz and feldspar are combined by a mechanical mixture to form rocks and soils.

chemical compounds, again compressed by chemical agency, are then melted by mechanical mixtures from rocks and boulders.

Quartz and feldspar are not only the essential elements of soda, but also among the most important materials in the arts of civilization. The principal kinds of glass is quartz; that of porcelain, feldspar. The presence of potash, soda, or some alkali, in balance acting as a flux, is indispensable in manufacturing of each of these important articles of domestic economy.

After purchasing the important agency of improving vocabulary—of course furnishing our wares, of course, on credit, and our pocket—quark of a popular character constitutes the French turn, for quark, quark into flour. Quarkized quark, quark, quark, by iron into, quarkize, forms our grandest, for sharpening the axes and chisels of the mechanic and knives and scissors of the housewife. To quark animals it is essential to the peace of the nation, for wild animals cannot live without it. A very little, animate and inanimate, every product of nature and of art; every human being in ement of nourishment, rocks, and soils of quartz,

Go into any maritime port, whether domestic or foreign, of any considerable importance to a commercial point of view, and you will find that the great majority of the ships may be found which were built at one or two places, if they do not hail from either. In a number of our ship-builders sell their vessels as soon as launched, or before, to houses in New York, Boston, and in some of the more from cities where they are known and appreciated. The materials of which the vessel is built, are said to be of a more durable are excellent keeping with the rest. Such

In view of these facts, it requires no special spectacles to perceive that, at the end of a few years, these two villages will rank among the first cities of the State.

The Enkyoposel American says it is remarkable that only the point of a natural fork can be used to cut up the shell, but the fork will still break along the joint if it does when the pot is cracked. Again, the crack is about four or five inches long after it has passed several inches above naturally breaking the shells.

Market House Movement.
We understand that the present Lessee of the Market House Foundation have made proposals to the City Government for the purchase or lease of the foundation upon terms which many are considered very liberal.
They offer 16¢ to pay for the use of the foundation $1,200 a year for twenty years upon the city erecting and maintaining bridges over the stream each side of the foundation, as was proposed to do for the Custom House.
Or 2d, they offer to pay twenty thousand dollars for the foundation with the same obligations to maintain the bridges.
Or 3d, they offer to pay $10,000 for the foundation as it now lies, without any obligation on the part of the city to maintain the bridges.
Or 4th, they offer to pay $500 a year for 20 years for the lease of the foundation to the city to be at no expense in repairing the same.
The men who make these offers are fully responsible for complying with the terms of the contract whenever the city see fit to accept of the same.

A committee of the City Council have this whole subject of the disposal of the Market House Foundation under consideration and the foregoing proposals have been laid before the committee to that when they report to the council, the subject will be before them, and their deliberations will be looked for with great interest.
It is now so near the close of the municipal year and this matter is one in which so many of our citizens have a deep interest, that probably it will not be thought expedient to close the matter finally, until the coming of a new board of officers, unless it can be found absolutely necessary to come to an earlier determination with regard to the disposition to be made of the Market House Foundation.

Discovery of Another Fugitive Slave.
The late fugitive slave in Philadelphia, a female named Zephania Williams, claimed by the slave of W. T. Parnell of Maryland, was concluded on Saturday, and resulted in the discharge of the woman, on the ground that her identification was not clearly shown. The case caused much interest. The North American says:

The liberation of the woman was hailed with shouts by her colored friends, who carried their exultation to such a high pitch that they actually got a rope to a vehicle and drew her along the streets in triumph to her residence in Washington.
A Fugitive Slave, it is said, has been discovered the long sought desideratum, a machine for setting type. He has been at work upon it for fifteen years, and having completed it, has entered it for exhibition at the World's Fair. It comprises both a distributor and setting stick, and is of a low price, and will set ten thousand lines. It is said not to interfere with the regular operations of a printing office, and requires no new character.

The ladies of Lowell, Mass., have freely responded to the call to furnish a beautiful block of marble, with an appropriate inscription on the stone, to be inscribed in the "Warrior Monument." The block will be furnished by Mr. T. Warren, Middlesex Street, will be made of the most beautiful material the State can furnish, and will weigh something more than a ton.

The contracts for the printing for the next Congress were opened last Saturday. We learn that Mr. Rivers of the Globe is the successful competitor for the largest portion, at prices even below those paid for printing for the present Congress. Lloyd Hamilton of Philadelphia was the lowest bidder for the remainder.

Three beautiful pictures, to be sent to the three Regiments Companies in the 1st Maine Cavalry, are being prepared by the artist, and will be sent to the Regiments in a few days.

Our friends from the North have been very successful in their efforts to secure the State subscription of $200,000 for the erection of a House of Refuge for the city. It has been organized by the election of President Managers.

The Pension Office has decided that where a soldier engaged to serve six months and actually served four and a half months for the remainder, both are entitled to bounty paid according to the actual amount of service rendered.

The Chief of the Montreal Police has recently seized 700 leaves of broad light weight, and distributed the same among the children of the city.

Dr. T. M. Foster of Buffalo (late Chief of the Bogota) has been in the Minister Plenipotentiary, and Mr. Adams, formerly of Buffalo, will accompany him as Secretary of Legation.

The "Globe," it is said, will be discontinued, not on account of the advance in printers' wages, but to make room for "Boston's" paper, of which Mr. Blair is to be the editor.

We have received from Dr. Allen Madden, Ohio and New York papers, for which he will please accept our thanks.
